Customer Reviews

Here is the unbiased lowdown on 98 hostels in Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg.

Whether you're looking to party or just looking for a clean, quiet, affordable place to crash, this guide will get you exactly where you want to go. The authors tell it like it is with their at-a-glance rating system and candid descriptions. Entries include their opinions on cleanliness, safety, hospitality, party potential, best bet for a bite, the hostel's "gestalt" and what to see and do in the area. They also tell you how to get there using your own feet or wheels, or by public transportation. (4 3/4 x 8 1/4, 208 pages, b&w photos, maps, icons)

Paul Karr is an award-winning writer from Athens, Georgia, whose contributions have appeared in Sports Illustrated, Sierra, and other publications. He has twice been named artist-in-residence by the National Parks Service. Martha Coombs is a translator, writer, and photographer who works in North America and abroad. Her hometown is Portland, Maine.

This books really tells it like no other guide book. I would recommend it above Let's Go and others.

It thoroughly reviews the ups and downs of hostelling in these countries. Obviously, the main attractions are the cities of Brussels and Amsterdam, and it covers the hostels there superbly, but if you want to explore the real local towns of these countries and you want to do it on a budget, this book describes the lesser known areas of these countries which you can see by staying at hostels. No other guide book lists every hostel available to the independent traveler. It's loaded with social criticism as well. And it's funny! Forget Rick Steves, his books are for older folks. If you're young and hip, you'll enjoy these far more!
