Beth Kemp's background is in the premium jewelry industry. Ten years ago, her love of textiles and beading led her to Kumihimo. She is passionate about this art form and loves sharing her knowledge with braiders worldwide through her online store, "Braid & Bead Studio," and her Facebook pages dedicated to Kumihimo.

This is a very well written and illustrated. Great for many types of projects from bookmarkers too beaded necklaces. When I purchased the book I also purchased a square loom; what I didn't know was that there are differences in looms. This book uses a loom that has numbers 1 through 12 at the top and bottom; the loom I bought has 1 through 10; so that threw me off a bit. I'd suggest to buy the "right loom" so everything looks the same as it does in the book. The cardboard loom that is included with the book is numbered 2 through 11. (yes, the numbered 1 through 10 certainly works, just doesn't match the book).

I lost this book after getting it and doing two of the projects in it and then got the big loom for this art and after getting comfortable with that I could not find this book which has some great flat patterns it which I was not ready to tackle until after I felt comfortable with the other patterns. I have tried using wire however found myself getting too frustrated so I decided to back up and start from the beginning as is how we generally learn things instead of starting at the middle as wire is harder to control at times when making some patterns. I highly recommend this book for those whom are interested in patterns and in achieving new patterns and new ways of making old things and new things. In my head I can see dresses made like this as I am sure you have seen the shoes. ;)

Both of her books are excellent. They have detailed diagrams and pictures.
