'Don't leave home without STREETWISE.' --The New York Times 'STREETWISE is an absolute travel essential.' --Travel + Leisure Magazine 'In a strange city, your sense of direction is only as good as the map in your hands. The best maps to carry are published by STREETWISE.' --Chicago Daily Herald

STREETWISE® is the first map to be designed with modern graphics and is the originator of the laminated, accordion-fold map format. We've set the standard that every map company has imitated but never duplicated. Our mission is to make you feel comfortable, to make you feel safe in a place where you've never been before and to enable you to experience a familiar place more fully. The company was founded in 1984 by Michael Brown, who had been in international publishing for many years, setting up subsidiaries for textbook publishers. In the 1970s, Brown traveled extensively throughout Africa, India, the Middle East and Southeast Asia. Brown would take a large paper map, cut out the city center, folded it up and slip it into his pocket, thus preventing him from looking like a tourist in areas where discretion is the better part of travel. This was his tool for surviving. After many years on the road, Brown settled back in New York and decided to start his own business, based on the adaptations he had made to maps in his travels. His goal was to give someone the ability to navigate easily in unfamiliar terrain. He started with a new map format: the accordion fold. Such a simple idea, but at the time it was revolutionary. No more struggling to fold an awkward, oversized paper map. This new format would enable the user to blend in like a native, instead of stick out like a tourist. Brown then added lamination to ensure that the map would be a lasting tool. More important than the format was the design of the map itself. It had to be a map that not only succeeded above and beyond any map he had used, but was esthetically appealing as well. The look of it had to be as striking as the functionality. Color was introduced in a way that was never seen before in a map - vivid purple for water, soothing gray for the background of street grids, gold to highlight elements of the map. Clarity, conciseness and convenience in a very stylish package. Building the business was a 24 hour job. Brown sold the maps during the day, zipping around Manhattan making deliveries on his Harley Davidson. At night he packed the orders and did the design work. More titles were added, each title requiring months of research and design. Today, STREETWISE[®] produces over 130 titles for major destinations, regions and countries throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, Australia, Europe, the United Kingdom and Asia. We have grown from the back of a motorcycle to selling millions of maps around the world. Yet each title is still painstakingly researched and updated. STREETWISE[®] is one of the only, if not THE only map company that conducts research by walking or driving an area to ensure accuracy. After all, what good is the map if what you hold in your hands doesn't match what you see on the street sign? This lengthy fact checking results in superior accuracy; in effect, we've done the work, now you have the adventure. In the end, it's not about the map, it's about getting out and finding your own authentic experience wherever you go. It's about being in a city or a region and discovering things that you never thought you would find. You can do this if you have confidence and you have confidence if you have a great map. STREETWISE[®] is the great map that you need.

I visit Denver at least once a year - just love it there! I've used an old edition of the Streetwise Denver map and am glad a new one came out - it really was needed. It's virtually indestructible and the downtown map is especially helpful for walking around. Luckily I've visited so much that I almost don't even need a map there anymore, but the small investment was worth it. I absolutely love the Light Rail system there and use it extensively since I stay in the Tech Center area. I liked that this map includes a dedicated map of the Light Rail system, being able to see it for the downtown area and for the greater Denver area - kudos. Here's the inaccuracy I found - I was just in Denver less than 2 months ago and as of yet there is no "G" line from Lincoln to Nine Mile for the Light Rail. I know the RTD is working on new routes, but this should have been labeled as "anticipated opening in 20xx" or the like. I didn't even see this listed on the Light Rail information posts as a new line being constructed, nor is it listed anywhere in the 2011 RTD System Map gigantic folding map that I referenced just before doing this review. In order for someone to use the Light Rail to get from Lincoln to Nine Mile as of when I'm writing this they'd have to take either the E or F line to Southmoor and then transfer to the southbound H line to get to Nine Mile. That being said, this "G" line would be likely be one of the lesser used lines, if not the least used, but still shouldn't be listed in here as appearing as an active Light Rail route. It also appears that the main building of the Denver Art Museum is incorrectly labeled on the Downtown map - it is one block south of where it's listed on the map and is right across the street from the Denver Public Library. Really not a big deal in the grand scheme of it all, but could have been labeled a little better. The last "inaccuracy" has absolutely nothing to do with the company that made this map. Invesco Field at Mile High is now Sports Authority Field at Mile High. At the time this was printed it still was Invesco Field. Anyone going to Denver to see a Broncos game would quickly, quickly realize that since "Mile High" is still in the stadium name, not to mention the tiny little Bronco emblem the map shows in the seats which is accurate. Overall good upgrade other than the 2 inaccuracies I've noted.

I have purchased many Streetwise maps and have been very pleased with their accuracy and usefulness. So, when I discovered I was headed to Denver, I went ahead and purchased one in Feb. 2012. The notes on it say that it was revised in December 2010. I spent a great deal of time trying to track down the Cultural Trolley that is shows on the map with no luck. I finally called the visitor's center and they said the trolley had not been running for at least five years. That should have been caught in the version of the map that I bought with the December 2010 date on it. Hopefully the newer version in May 2012 does NOT have the cultural trolley on it. Otherwise the map was very useful, especially with the Boulder insert.

I was looking for a Denver map with more detail. Got one with less. Print is tiny and area covered is not that large (Denver and its suburbs cover a lot of area!). I'll keep looking for a more useful map.

A wider regional view would be helpful, to include perhaps an inset of the Red Rocks area. Also a little more detailed info regarding the downtown Denver pedestrian mall would be nice. But compactness versus detail is not an easy trade-off. Still a great pocket sized map.

I am disappointed in the map - the print is very small and I wanted a more detailed map of the Denver area including suburbs. Not interested in Boulder well made accurate as best as i can tell - i did not get lost have kept it for next time i am in denver

Our daughter and her husband moved to the suburbs of Denver recently and were tired of getting lost all the time. We bought two maps, one for them and one for ourselves for our visits. Good quality and excellent timing.

Love the laminated Streetwise maps. Buy them whenever I travel as they are so handy and compact for sightseeing.
