Religious Radio And Television In The United States, 1921-1991: The Programs And Personalities

Synopsis

In one encyclopedic sequence are entries on both the programs and the people of inspirational broadcasting, from the experimental shows in the early 1920s to the sophisticated, satellite dominated programs of today. Each program entry provides background information and a synopsis of the program. For personalities, a career summary includes information on their ministry and their shows.

"a unique and entertaining work" -- Booklist/RBB "pulls together information not easily found elsewhere...a useful addition" -- RQ "this book fills a need and does so in an accessible format" -- Choice

Hal Erickson is an editor for AMG All-Movie Guide, an on-line film and video database, and is also the author of "From Beautiful Downtown Burbank" (2000, $45), Sid and Mary Krofft (1998, $48.50) and Television Cartoon Shows: An Illustrated Encyclopedia (1995, $75). He lives in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. --This text refers to an out of print or unavailable edition of this title.

I'm rather anti-religious (and pro-spiritual) as a matter of course, but the topic was a major part of the origins of broadcasting, particularly the medium of radio, which is one of my major interests. This book is an excellent overview and lexicon of the various religious programs that have hit the national (and regional) airwaves since the late 1920's.
