

The book was found

Inhuman Traffick: The International Struggle Against The Transatlantic Slave Trade: A Graphic History (Graphic History Series)

Synopsis

Inhuman Traffick tells for the first time a story of enslavement and freedom that spans the entire Atlantic world. Beginning in 1829 off the west coast of Africa with the recapture of the slave ship Neira--previously seized by the British Navy in its efforts to suppress the "inhuman traffick"--and ending with the liberation of the African passengers who had been sold into slavery in the French Caribbean, Rafe Blaufarb puts a human face on the history of the transatlantic slave trade and the efforts to suppress it. He addresses a neglected aspect of this tragic history in the wide geographical and thematic contexts in which it took place--Africa, the Caribbean, Europe, and the Atlantic Ocean--and situates the story in familial, social, economic, diplomatic, and military spheres. Inhuman Traffick shows how history is done by explaining how the documents on which it is based moved through time and space from the ships, African outposts, colonial buildings, and ministerial offices to the archives of present-day Britain and France. Blaufarb follows the ship, its crew, and its captives from the slave port of Old Calabar to the Caribbean and into the courts of Britain and France, where the history of the illegal slave trade, slavery in the Caribbean, and diplomatic history all come into focus. Students will be taken in by the vivid drawings and the rich narrative, but in Blaufarb's skilled hands, they will also find themselves immersed in a unique learning experience. Blaufarb not only presents the history of the ship and its captives, he takes the reader inside the project itself. He explains how he came upon the story, how he and his editor envisioned the project, and how he worked with illustrator Liz Clarke to craft more than 300 "cells" that comprise Part II of the book. He and Clarke even take the reader inside archives in France and Britain. This powerful combination of historical essay, graphics, primary-source documents, and discussion questions gives students insight into the Atlantic World plantation complex, the transatlantic slave trade, and the process of historical storytelling itself.

Book Information

Series: Graphic History Series

Paperback: 240 pages

Publisher: Oxford University Press; 1 edition (September 1, 2014)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 0199334072

ISBN-13: 978-0199334070

Product Dimensions: 9.9 x 0.9 x 7 inches

Shipping Weight: 1.4 pounds (View shipping rates and policies)

Average Customer Review: 3.5 out of 5 stars 9 customer reviews

Best Sellers Rank: #95,309 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #55 in Books > History > World > Slavery & Emancipation #107 in Books > Comics & Graphic Novels > Biographies & History Graphic Novels #273 in Books > History > Africa

Customer Reviews

"A must read for all those interested in nineteenth-century Atlantic history."--Ugo Nwojeki, University of California, Berkeley "Rafe Blaufarb and Liz Clarke have created an innovative and engaging teaching tool for the transatlantic slave trade in the era of suppression. It combines exhaustive research with accessibility, offers a superb overview of the traffic, and provides extensive original documentation of one of the most dramatic and poignant incidents in nineteenth-century maritime history."--David Eltis, Emory University "Drawing together Kru sailors, Sierra Leonean craftsmen, illegal French slavers, British anti-slavery patrol ships, a corrupt Guadeloupe governor, and British and French politicians, Blaufarb weaves a remarkable tapestry of the historical forces that transformed the slave trade in the nineteenth century. Inhuman Traffick offers a beautifully illustrated panorama of the Atlantic World during the age of emancipation, one that will appeal to students and experts alike."--James Sweet, University of Wisconsin-Madison "The use of graphic histories in the classroom is becoming widespread, and Inhuman Traffick shows why they can work so effectively to engage students. Like all of the best examples of the genre, Inhuman Traffick tells a compelling story through a complex interplay of image and text--it will keep students reading, and learning, to the very end."--Randy Sparks, Tulane University "Inhuman Traffick is a tour de force."--Rebecca Hartkopf Schloss, Texas A&M University "We are treated to the historical equivalent of 3D cinema as Dr. Blaufarb hits us from all angles: a traditional narrative that is concise and accessible; an innovative graphic history that brings the struggle against the slave trade to life; and a selection of primary sources that underscores the painstaking process by which historians explore the past. This is a truly groundbreaking approach to history."--Philippe Girard, McNeese State University "My students will be delighted to have Inhuman Traffick added to their reading list."--Patrick Rael, Bowdoin College

Rafe Blaufarb is Professor of History and the Ben Weider Eminent Scholar at Florida State University. Liz Clarke is a professional illustrator based in Cape Town, South Africa.

This book serves as excellent introduction to the slave trade in antebellum America by examining a micro-history. The book is well written and illustrated, and includes all of the primary source documentation as well as walking the reader through the process of research and writing. It would make an excellent book to assign to kids in high school up through graduate school.

Interesting read and book was in good condition

Required reading for my Human Rights class. Love this book, beautifully written and illustrated, and very informative. Would recommend.

Good book. Slow shipping

Informational, though at the time reading this as a college class was languorous. I would have read this if someone gifted it to me for freereading or group reading out of class

Over dramatized book on the slave trade and the British's role in it. Accounts this one specific instance of a ship being capture but overall is a boring read.

This book was requested for purchase in my Western Tradition History class , and throughout my reading I found that this piece was a great introduction to the beginning of slave trade , and inside of the graphic novel portion was illustrated views on the inside of what actually transpired . However , great parts of this time was left out , and portions were altered which made this book less interesting to a certain degree . I do recommend one learning about the topic to read it , however , there are other books based on the same topic with further more insight .

This book serves as excellent introduction to the slave trade in antebellum America by examining a micro-history. The book is well written and illustrated, and includes all of the primary source documentation as well as walking the reader through the process of research and writing. It would make an excellent book to assign to kids in high school up through graduate school.

Download to continue reading...

Inhuman Traffick: The International Struggle against the Transatlantic Slave Trade: A Graphic History (Graphic History Series) Captives as Commodities: The Transatlantic Slave Trade The SLAVE TRADE: THE STORY OF THE ATLANTIC SLAVE TRADE: 1440 - 1870 Graphic Design Success: Over 100 Tips for Beginners in Graphic Design: Graphic Design Basics for Beginners,

Save Time and Jump Start Your Success (graphic ... graphic design beginner, design skills)
Inhuman: Post-Human Series, Book 5 Mein Kampf - My Struggle: Unabridged edition of Hitlers original book - Four and a Half Years of Struggle against Lies, Stupidity, and Cowardice Inhuman Bondage: The Rise and Fall of Slavery in the New World Traffick Tricks & Traffick The Slave Trade and the Origins of International Human Rights Law The Flight: Charles Lindbergh's Daring and Immortal 1927 Transatlantic Crossing Transatlantic Liners (Shire Library) Good Faith and Truthful Ignorance: A Case of Transatlantic Bigamy Francisco de Miranda: A Transatlantic Life in the Age of Revolution Miracle at Midlife: A Transatlantic Romance Brit-Think, Ameri-Think: A Transatlantic Survival Guide, Revised Edition The Slave Trade (History Files) The Making of a Racist: A Southerner Reflects on Family, History, and the Slave Trade Oman in Perspective - Orientation Guide: Geography, History, Economy, Security, Muscat, Salalah, Nizwa, Yarubi Imamate, Sultan Qaboos bin Said, Baluchi, Lawatiyya, Khojas, Rustaq, Slave Trade The Atlantic Slave Trade (Problems in World History)

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help