Grade 3-5 "A compendium of random information about insects and spiders presented in question-and-answer format. Clear, full-color photos provide close-up views of various species as well as an occasional glimpse at children interacting with them. From the first query ("Why wouldn't we have chocolate if bugs disappeared?") through the last ("I couldn't we do without the bugs that bug us the most?"), there is no organizing principle. Although the actual information is more than adequate and often interesting, its inaccessibility is a drawback for children seeking specific facts. The lack of an index exacerbates this problem. The volume relies on its design (which is adequate but not dazzling) to drive readers forward. Although not a useful book for reports, this is a fun treat for browsers. I got this for a sweet little girl who, for some reason, just loves bugs and animals. She was very excited about the book and I can understand why. The print is large enough that it doesn't stuff too many facts into one page - - it's an easy read for an 8 year old and packed with a lot of science. I even enjoyed reading it as a quick look at bug science. I actually learned something too! I recommend this book for any child with an interest in science or biology, or even an adult looking to learn something about bugs.

This book is fun and easy to read. Me and my husband have learned a lot with our 6 year old.

THIS BOOK IS A "HOME RUN"!! It's great for people of any age.. I did buy this book for my 10yr old nephew, but when I received it, after skimming thru the pages, I became interested in the colorful detail of the pictures, and the interesting facts about the animals-- as an educated 65 yr old adult, I was presented with specific insect and spider facts.. that I had been unaware of before. This is a great companion for the set of real insects encased in plastic cubes that I also purchased for my nephew.. EXCELLENT --CHOICES!!!

Bought this for my friends daughter who loves bugs and she loves this book!

Great learning book.

Very easy book to read. I purchased this book to help encourage a young man that I have been tutoring while also challenging him to try harder and enjoy reading.

I got this for my two boys ages 4 and 5. While the specific reading may not be for much older kids, I think what's presented can generate questions and interest, even for me. It's fun stuff and the boys really like it. There is a good variety of critters and topics. Seems to be well made and will not be torn up as quickly as some of the other books they use a lot.

My 8-year-old nephew is obsessed with bugs, insects, and spiders. He lives in Czech Republic and is just learning to read English, so this was the perfect gift for him. I sent it along with the Backyard

Safari Field Scope and he was thrilled.
